

The University of Hradec Kralove gave me the opportunity to get to know cultures I would have never imagined I would know. It has widened my contacts around the world, and it has taught me that understanding diversity can work values such as comprehension and empathy that I consider necessary for the fully growth of a human on its path to life. Moreover, I was thankful for the study schedule because it permitted me travel on the weekends so I could get to know the world in such peaceful times as its is now in the region.

Concerning Hradec Kralove, I find that the location and environment are perfect because of its quite tranquil and peaceful neighborhoods. Personally, my favorite part is the fact that I could walk alone to places, dark in the afternoon, without fearing for my life (thing that I can't do in my country, especially as a woman). The fact that the public transport was always available also helped a lot, and it was also enjoyable because of the never overcrowded rides. It is, indeed, a perfect place to study, and for traveling because of the center location. The university staff was always helpful, answering the emails pretty fast.

I am really happy with the experience and I wish lots of more people can have the same opportunity I had.

Thanks a lot,

Melissa Navarro
