

Univerzita Hradec Králové
Filozofická fakulta

Arriving in Hradec Kralove, I was immediately captivated by the city's picturesque charm and warm atmosphere. As I settled into my cozy apartment, I knew that the following months would be filled with incredible adventures and enriching experiences.

Exploring Hradec Kralove became a delightful journey of discovery. The city's historic center, adorned with elegant Gothic and Baroque buildings, transported me to another era. The city's parks, offered tranquil escapes where I could unwind, study, and soak in the beauty of nature.

While Hradec Kralove was my home base, I made it a priority to explore other countries during my time abroad. The central location of the Czech Republic made it convenient to embark on exciting adventures across Europe. I eagerly hopped on trains and planes, ready to immerse myself in new cultures and create lasting memories.

One of my most memorable trips was to Prague, the Czech Republic's enchanting capital. The city's cobblestone streets, ornate palaces, and breathtaking views from Prague Castle left me in awe. I explored the narrow alleys of the Old Town, crossed the iconic Charles Bridge, and indulged in traditional Czech cuisine at cozy restaurants. Prague's vibrant nightlife also offered unforgettable evenings filled with live music, laughter, and dancing.

Another unforgettable journey took me to neighboring Germany. Berlin, with its rich history and vibrant arts scene, fascinated me. I visited the iconic Brandenburg Gate, explored the remnants of the Berlin Wall, and immersed myself in the city's thriving contemporary art scene. The vibrant neighborhoods of Kreuzberg and Friedrichshain introduced me to eclectic cafes, street art, and a diverse mix of cultures.

Venturing further south, I found myself in Vienna, Austria's cultural capital. The grandeur of Schönbrunn Palace, the artistic treasures of the Kunsthistorisches Museum, and the melodious strains of classical music filling the streets left me spellbound. I savored traditional Viennese pastries at cozy cafes and took leisurely strolls through the charming streets of the city.

As I traveled from one country to another, I realized the transformative power of cultural immersion. Each destination offered unique perspectives, historical treasures, and unforgettable encounters with locals and fellow travelers. These experiences not only broadened my understanding of the world but also enriched my personal growth.

Returning to Hradec Kralove after my travels, I felt a renewed sense of appreciation for the city that had become my second home. The friendships I had formed with fellow international students deepened, and we shared stories of our adventures, inspired by the memories we had created together.

Ferdi Anil Aktaş

My Erasmus experience in Hradec Kralove, coupled with the opportunity to explore neighboring countries, became a transformative journey. The memories I made, the knowledge I gained, and the friendships I formed will forever hold a special place in my heart. Hradec Kralove became the gateway to a world of discovery, opening my eyes to new horizons and leaving me with a lifelong love for travel and cultural exploration.

Co-funded by the European Union