After logging in, you can create an account on the website with a randomly generated password.

Pressing the "Create Wi-Fi account" button creates an account with a randomly generated password.

The login is wifi-domainLogin@uhk.cz

The password is a randomly generated string of letters, numbers, and symbols.

Changing the password:

If the account is active (up to 1 year since the last password change), the password can be changed to another randomly generated password. The website also shows how long the password will remain valid.

After pressing "Change password", the system saves the newly generated password and extends the validity period by 1 year.

Displaying the current password:

Each active account can display the currently set password by logging in to <https://wifi.uhk.cz/> and pressing "Show current password". The password is shown in a modal window.
